Dear Parish Family,

Thank you to all who made our 125th Anniversary celebration last weekend, so special. First, we thank those who sponsored our events with generous contributions. For all those who worked on the Gala, which was enjoyed by all; for those who helped with the receptions on our Feast Day and Sunday, which were wonderful as well and for all those who baked or prepared food for us to enjoy. A special thank you to Bishop Perez and Bishop Pilla for honoring us with their presence and kind words. To the Music Ministry and all those who made our liturgies special and prayerful. To all those who work behind the scenes to make sure everything ran smoothly. Finally, to all who participated in the celebrations in any way. Your presence is a testament to your love of God and the parish community. May our Blessed Mother continue to guide and protect us.

My Dear Parish Family:

Have you ever thought what life will be like in heaven? Week after week, day after day during the celebration of Mass, we pray for those who have died, for their eternal happiness and peace in the glory of God's Kingdom. Books have been written and movies produced about this very subject – life after death. We don't really know the validity of these accounts, but we do know what has been promised to us by God.

Today's readings the central theme seems to focus on a heavenly banquet. Isaiah sees heaven as a place where death is destroyed: no longer will pain and evil exist; no longer will tears fall upon those who suffered because of abortion, sex trafficking, abuse, poverty, ... the list continues. The veil that has blurred our vision or concealed our ignorance that allows these cruelties, will be obliterated.

In Matthew's Gospel, Jesus' speaks of a heavenly banquet focused on God's Kingdom beginning here and now. The parable tells us that people were invited to the banquet but did not come, or those who did, were not dressed properly, meaning that they were not properly disposed so they were rejected. Others were gathered and filled the banquet hall. Who were they? We probably would be surprised to see among the guests a mother who aborted her child, or the young boy and girl prostituting themselves on the streets, or a neighbor suffering from addiction, or even a family who some would judge to be dysfunctional. They were and still are the most vulnerable and ignored among us. We sometimes judge what we perceive to be real, and not from what God knows to be true. God knows each child who is exploited and stripped of all self-worth in the evil of sex trafficking throughout the world, and yes, even in Cleveland Ohio. God shows mercy to the mother who aborted her baby and now is repentant as she suffers the pain of her action. God recognizes the family struggling to find healing from the entanglement and anguish of domestic abuse, and places His arms around the addict who now prays to remain sober each waking moment. These are the guests at the banquet table of our Lord, the men, women and children who have come to know our heavenly Father's love, mercy and generosity and said "yes" to His invitation.

What about you and me? If we were to encounter Jesus, in person, right here and now, would we be like Saint Paul filled with thanksgiving to God for his mercy and love, or would we have some excuse and ignore this life-giving, life-saving invitation? We really cannot wait for the tomorrows to eradicate that which prevents us from putting on the proper attire bearing humility, gratitude and love for all we have received and, in turn share these gifts with those He chooses to place in our path.

What is heaven like? I only know that when I am processing to receive the Blessed Sacrament and am among my family, fellow parishioners and friends, and especially the many adults who entered the Church through the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults process, we are all in communion and sharing a bit of heaven. That's what heaven must be like, regardless of our personal histories, we changed our lives, gave ourselves to our Creator and together share in the fullness of His Kingdom.

In Christ,
Anne De Marco, Pastoral Minister
